Game Previews: By Paul Gerber

Syracuse JR at Geneva RW, 7:00pm
Geneva- The Syracuse Junior Chiefs will travel to McDonough Park to face the Geneva Red Wings in their season opener. This will be the third consecutive road game for the Junior Chiefs who are currently sitting at 1-1 on the season while the Red Wings have anxiously been waiting to get things rolling.

Nicholas May (St.Thomas Aquinas) will get the start for the Junior Chiefs while Jeff Croteau (Bentley) gets the ball on opening day for the Red Wings.

Wellsville at Rochester (AIA), 7:00pm
Webster- Basket Road Field will have a new tenant this upcoming season as they will welcome the Rochester’s Athletes in Action team to town. The team formerly played at Alfred State College in Alfred, NY has relocated to Webster to replace the departed Webster Yankees for the 2012 season.

As for Wellsville, they are 0-3 and will try and get their first win of the season on the road against AIA. One player to look out for is catcher Chris May (Florida International University) for Wellsville. He is batting .364 with 2 homeruns already this season.

Anthony Galan (Brown University) is 0-1 with a 2.25 ERA and will get the start for Wellsville. AIA has currently not picked a starter for today’s game.

Geneva TW at Hornell, 7:00pm
Hornell- Opening Day 2012 has arrived in Hornell and the Dodgers are off to a 2-0 start on the young season. Expectations are usually high in Hornell and this year is no different. The Dodgers will look to remain perfect on the season when they host the Geneva Twins this evening. The Twins come in after defeating the Oilers 13-8 last night in a game that seen each team pound out 14 hits.

Anthony Dovale (Florida Southern College) will be on the hill for the Twins while Matt Danton (Texas A&M Corpus Christi) will be the starter for Hornell.
