NYCBL Game of the Day:
Rochester Ridgemen @ Genesee Rapids 7:00 pm

After splitting their last two games, the Ridgemen and the Rapids will square off for a third game at the Kerr-Pegula Athletics Complex. Dustin King (Hannibal-LaGrange) will toe the mound for Rochester. The junior is 2-0 and coming off a complete game shutout against the Wellsville Nitros. The Rapids will march 2-2 Jared Knowlton to the mound. The Houghton College righty won his last game against Sherrill, going 6.2 innings with no earned runs and two strikeouts.

Look for Nick Wolyniec (Bergen CC) to make a difference for the Ridgemen. He is currently fourth in the league in batting average, going .408 on the year.

EDWARDS STILL STREAKING

The Geneva Twins’ Tre Edwards (Murray State) extended his streak of consecutive games with a hit to 11 on Monday. During the streak, he has accounted for seven multi-hit games and has three extra base hits. Over the course of these 11 games, he is batting .530 and has raised his season average from a .381 to a .450, which is good for second in the league. Last year, Nick Sinay of the Syracuse JR Chiefs had a ten-game streak, which was the best in 2013. In 2011, Chris Bostick had an 18-game streak for the Webster Yankees.

Edwards did not play in Geneva’s win over Hornell, Tuesday.

Hitter of the Day: Frank D’Agostino, LF, Oneonta Outlaws

D’Agostino was pure fire at the plate last night. The junior out of Temple University hit his fourth and fifth double of the season. He finished the game going 4-5 with three RBI and two runs scored. His performance was a crucial part of the Outlaws’ massive 11-6 win over the Syracuse JR Chiefs.

W, 6.0 IP, 1 ER, 2 BB, 3 H, 2 K, 1-1, 2.31 ERA, .188 OAVG, .258 OOBP

Pitching against the Hornell Dodgers is by no means an easy task. The Dodgers had 164 runs and 34 doubles in just 21 games before Friday. Those numbers are what made Jake Shields’ game yesterday so special. The Case Western Reserve University righty threw six innings and allowed just three hits. Shields struck out two and allowed only one earned run. The sophomore moved to 2-1 on the season and has an ERA of 2.31. His 18 strikeouts are the second most on the team.
