Daily Recap (Continued on Page 2):

Game One: Oneonta 10 Sherrill 1

SHERRILL, N.Y. – The Outlaws bats were as efficient as they were potent, scoring multiple runs in all but one inning. All-Star Trevor Putzig (Tennessee Tech) led the way with four hits, four RBI and two runs scored in the game one rout.

Game Two: Oneonta 13 Sherrill 1 (Seven Innings)

SHERRILL, N.Y. – Not to be outdone by their game one slugfest, the Outlaws struck again in the night cap, dropping a baker’s dozen on the Smitties, this time paced by an unearthly, two-homer, 7-RBI performance from Jordan Bradley (Wofford College).

Game One: Cortland 4 Salt Cats 3 (Seven Innings)

CORTLAND, N.Y. – Battling slick conditions and three separate rain delays, things appeared to be breaking the Salt Cats way until Wesley Burghardt stepped to the plate in the bottom half of the fifth. The Brockport Golden Eagle proceeded to erase a three-run deficit with a single swing, launching a go-ahead grand slam into the hot afternoon, giving the Crush the final lead, a tally of 4-3.

Game Two: Salt Cats 10 Cortland 6 (Eight innings)

CORTLAND, N.Y. – The Battle for the East would prove not easily won, as Syracuse manufactured a four-run inning of their own, this one in the top of the eighth, to steal game two 10-6. This came after a furious Cortland rally of six runs in the bottom of the fifth. Brian Bilello (Concordia) produced a double that scored cleared the bases in the final frame, before later coming around to score an insurance run to cap his quality night.

Niagara 4 Genesee 2 (15 innings)

HOUGHTON, N.Y. – While the New York Mets and St. Louis Cardinals played an 18-inning marathon in Missouri, the Power and Rapids went punch-for-punch until the final Power haymaker found its mark in the 15th. The finisher came in the form of a go-ahead double off the bat of Caleb Lang (Caim), to put the Rapids within 5.5 of first in the West.

Twins 14 Wellsville 7

WELLSVILLE, N.Y. – An eight-run first inning never left much doubt in this contest as Geneva saw all but one starter drive in at least one run in the one-sided affair. J.T. Pittman (Le Moyne) added to an already impressive season average with two hits, three runs, and a walk to pace the Twins win. Twins also won the completion of a suspended game, 11-8.

Junior Chiefs 6 Red Wings 5

GENEVA, N.Y. – Sunday’s match up proved to be the jostling match one would expect between two teams vying for the final seed in the East. This time Syracuse would prove the winner, rallying from a 4-0 hole behind the bat of Michael Elfreth (Widener) who singled, doubled, scored twice, and plated two.

This Date in NYCBL History:

July 20, 2012—Zach Lauricella (St. John’s) was a force to be reckoned with as he clubbed two homers and plated seven runs in the JR Chiefs 22-10 win over the Red Wings.
Player of the Day

Jonathan Lapolla – Olean Oilers

5-6 | 2 R | 1 2B | 3 RBI

Though there were many extremely impressive offensive performances in the relentless heat that stretched across the state Sunday, none were more cooling than Lapolla’s in that he produced against one of the NYCBL’s hottest pitchers. Eastern All-Star Cameron Carney (Tusculum) of the Rochester Ridgemen had not allowed an earned run dating back to July 1st, and entered the game with an ERA of 2.25 and an opponent’s batting average of .196. Lapolla (Suffolk) merely hit .833 on the day, and produced over a third of the runs scored on the day for the Oilers. Sunday night marked his second-straight multi-hit, multi-RBI performance.

Pitcher of the Day

Connor Grey – Hornell Dodgers

8 IP | 5 H | 1 R, 0 ER | 2 BB | 6 SO

Grey (St. Bonaventure) continued his stellar season Sunday, picking up his fifth win of his all-star season. The righty hurler has made it a habit of pitching deep into ball games, with four of his five victories being of the eight or more innings variety. Just two of his nine starts this season have clocked in at under six innings and only just barely so. In addition to longevity add discipline to Grey’s impressive resume, as he’s allowed more than three earned runs in just three starts all season.

Player of the Week

Steven Goldstein-Hornell Dodgers

5 G | 10-20 | 10 R | 3 2B | 1 3B | 1 HR | 10 RBI | 3 BB, 1 HBP | 3 SB

NYCBL’s hottest pitchers. Eastern All-Star Cameron Carney (Tusculum) of the Rochester Ridgemen had not allowed an earned run dating back to July 1st, and entered the game with an ERA of 2.25 and an opponent’s batting average of .196. Lapolla (Suffolk) merely hit .833 on the day, and produced over a third of the runs scored on the day for the Oilers. Sunday night marked his second-straight multi-hit, multi-RBI performance.

Pitcher of the Week

David Ehmen – Oneonta Outlaws

2 GS, 2 W, 1 CG, 1 SO, 13 IP | 7 H | 3 R, 1 ER | 3 BB | 18 K | 0.69 ERA | 0.77 WHIP | .152 BAA | .220 OOB

With the playoffs fast approaching and Oneonta clinging tightly to the third seed in the East, weeks like the one David Ehmen had can’t be understated. The 6-2 lefty out of Wofford utterly toyed with hitters this week on his way to a K/9 rate of 12.46. His one earned run and was his only real blemish, to go along with just eleven batters of the 50 he faced, reaching base via his mistake.

Olean 14 Rochester 6

WEBSTER, N.Y. – Lost in the final score was how close this game actually was until the eighth. The Ridgemen nearly rallied from an 8-1 deficit with a five-run bottom half of the seventh to cut the lead to two. The Oilers responded with six unanswered runs to close out the game and the win. Jonathan Lapolla (Suffolk University) collected an eye-popping five hits (see more to the right) to go along with two runs and three RBI in the victory for Olean.

Hornell 12 Twins 1

HORNELL, N.Y. – Beware the letdown of coming off a blowout win or two, especially when there’s another game to be played in the same day. Geneva experienced this firsthand Sunday, following their earlier 14-7 win over Wellsville. The Dodgers improved their NYCBL-best record to 28-11 by scoring the game’s first 10 and final two runs. Connor Grey (St. Bonaventure) was sensational from the rubber, tossing eight innings of one-run (unearned) ball, fanning six and allowing just five hits and two walks. Steven Goldstein (University of Kansas) capped an impressive week (more to the right) with a triple, a walk, a stolen base, two RBI, and three runs scored.

NYCBL Prime Stats: ANY Dodging the Dodgers?

You really don’t have to look far to see how impressive Hornell has been down the stretch of the 2015 NYCBL season. A trip over to the “League Leaders” page will give you a taste. In the six statistical categories that are featured on that page, 10 of the 36 places open for leaders in batting average, home runs, RBI, wins, strikeouts, and ERA are reserved by someone on the Hornell roster. An extended look on the team side of things proves more of the same. The Dodgers lead in team batting average, on base percentage, and slugging percentage, boasting a slash line of .298/.386/.384. Scarer still is that if you took the 2nd place totals from each of those same categories, you’d arrive with a respectable yet less impressive slash of .271/.354/.363. Run production? Hornell has 39 more runs scored (227) than the second-place Twins (188). That’s with six less games played than Geneva. That’s an average score of 5.82 to 4.37, or a run and a half difference per game between the top two offenses in the league. Looking for an Achilles Heel? There is the fact that currently Hornell ranks eighth in the league in ERA. But one must also consider that it’s eighth with a team ERA of 3.09. That’s hardly what one would consider a glaring weakness. There is consistency in one flaw; in their 11 losses, Hornell has produced just 30 runs for an average of 2.73, and has been shut out three times in that stretch. If you want to beat the Champs, you better dodge their bats.
