NYCBL Game of the Day: Tuesday, June 17

Twins at Niagara, 7:00 pm

Both teams come into Tuesday’s matchup sporting different results from Monday night’s games.

Niagara was swept by Hornell and look to clean up their play on both sides of the ball, as they were beat by a combined score of 23-7 between the two games.

The Twins are coming off a 7-3 win over the Salt Cats and will look to keep their five game winning streak alive, which is the second best active streak in the league right now (Sherrill-eight).

The Power are currently sitting a half-game ahead of the Twins in the second spot in the Western Division. Both teams are 7-3 in their last ten games and trail first-place Hornell by 3.5 and four games respectively.

Hitter of the Day: Jimmy Latona, C, Hornell Dodgers
5-7, 2 RBI, 2 3B, 6 R, .560 AVG, .738 OBP

Latona (Monroe CC) has been an extremely important piece in the impressive start for the Dodgers, and the numbers speak for themselves. He was a combined 5-7 in the double-header on Monday night as they swept the Power in convincing fashion. He drove in two runs, hit two triples, and scored six times in Monday’s outing.

Pitcher of the Day: Mark Inseneker, P, Sherrill Silversmiths
2-1, 7.0 IP, 0 R, 1 H, 5 K, 0.94 ERA, .141 OAVG, .276 OOBP

Inseneker (St. John Fisher) shined in his start on Monday, throwing seven shutout innings and allowing only one hit. He dropped his ERA to 0.94, his OAVG to .141, and his OOBP to .276 as he moved to 2-1 on the season. He ranks eighth in the league in ERA, is second in OAVG, and is tied for third in strikeouts with 19.
