The Daily Recap:

Game 1: Wellsville 6, Niagara 3

Game 2: Wellsville 5, Niagara 4

Wellsville, N.Y. – The Nitros never trailed in game one, spurred on by big days at the dish from Joseph Hatcher (Indiana University Southeast) who drove in three on two singles, and Benjamin Haefner (University of Buffalo) who went 3-4, driving in one and scoring three times. Ivan Acuna (Catawba Valley CC) scored one run and plated another for Niagara in the loss.

Game two saw the Power surge for the first four runs of the contest three off the bat of Ryan Wagley (Arlington Baptist) as Niagara took a 4-0 lead into the bottom of the fifth. From then on it was all Nitros, as they rallied to score five unanswered with two in the fifth, two off a Christ Conley (Canisius) single followed by Daniel Koller (Thiel) coming around to score the go-ahead on a wild pitch in the sixth. Daniel Harms (Mansfield) earned the complete game win with seven solid innings of four-run ball for Wellsville.

Red Wings 4, Olean 3

Geneva, N.Y. – The Red Wings walked off to their sixth straight win on Andrew Utterback’s (Alabama A&M) sac fly in the bottom of the 10th. Sam Tinkham (Grinnell) turned in a strong seven-inning no decision effort in the victory for Geneva, allowing three runs (two earned) on five hits and a walk while striking out eight. Michael Roman (St. John Fisher) drove in a run and score a run with a pair of doubles for Olean in the loss.

Sherrill 9, Junior Chiefs 2

Syracuse, N.Y. – The Silversmiths snapped their four-game losing streak with a particularly explosive hitting performance, scoring all nine of their runs in one inning. The Smitty lineup sent 14 batters to the plate in the top of the sixth, nine of whom found their way home. Juan Carlos Pena (College of Central Florida) and Reid Neal (Florida Atlantic) paced the scoring, as the former drove in two on a pinch hit double, and then came around to score, while the latter scored then drove in a run following a double and single respectively. Daniel Jarrell (Washington) came away with the win for Sherrill, going six strong, allowing just two runs on five hits with two strikeouts in the quality start.

Hornell 10, Rochester 0

Rochester, N.Y. – Joe Gacinski (Mercyhurst) was absolutely dominant over eight scoreless innings, retiring the first 17 batters he faced. His brilliance was only matched by that of the Dodger lineup which saw three members drive in multiple runs. None was more impressive than Brandon Sandoval (Vanguard) who scored twice and drove in three, going 3-5 on the evening.

Oneonta 6, Cortland 5

Syracuse, N.Y. – Down one run with two outs and the bases empty, the Outlaws put on a masterful rally capped by Kody Ruedisili (Wofford) whose bases-loaded single drove in the tying and winning runs. Daniel Karasinski (Concordia) was impressive for Cortland in long relief, allowing just one unearned run on five hits and six strikeouts in the no-decision. Zephan Kash (Mansfield) had three RBI in the loss.

Salt Cats 6, Geneseed 4

Hornell, N.Y. – Matt Hardy (Nova Southeastern) pitched six strong innings, allowing two unearned runs on seven hits while striking out seven in the win. Nick DeRegis (University of Rhode Island) and Anthony Massicci (Canisius) paced the lineup, with DeRegis driving in two, and Massicci scoring twice and driving in one.
NYCBL Alumni Update:
Matt Hockenberry, P, GRW '12
Lakewood Blueclaws, Class-A SAL

After being taken by the Phillies in the 9th round of this year’s MLB amateur draft the Temple Owl has impressed. In six relief appearances (one in the Gulf Coast League, five in the South Atlantic League), the former Red Wing has a 1-0 record with one save, a 2.53 ERA, and 8 strike outs, all while allowing 11 hits, five runs (three earned), and three walks in 10.2 innings pitched. Here’s the catch: all five runs allowed came in his first relief appearance in the SAL (the second game of his minor league career). The other five outings have a stat line of 9.2 innings pitches, 0 runs, seven hits, two walks, eight strikeouts, an ERA of 0.00, a WHIP of 0.97, and an opponents’ batting average of just .200.

Sam Kim Continues Tear:
With his two hits Sunday, Red Wings’ catcher Sam Kim now has a ten-game hitting streak on the season. The University of Hawaii Hilo product is headed to the NYCBL all-star game this week and deservedly so. The righty has recorded a hit in and incredible 20 of 23 games this season, and currently leads the league in doubles, home runs, extra base hits, batting average, slugging percentage, and OPS. Even more impressive? Kim has recorded:
- Extra base hits in 12/23 games
- Multiple hits in 12/23 games
- An RBI in 12/23 games
- A run scored in 14/23 games
- At least one R or RBI in 20/23 games

Turn some of these numbers into averages and apply it to a 162 game season and you get the following stat line for a season:
247/578
139 Singles
97 Doubles
14 Triples
28 HR
134 R
134 RBI
139 EBH
.427 AVG
1.759 SLG

Alex Sanchez, Jr. (SJR ’12) 17
Nick Flemister (WEB ’11) 15

Tre Edwards (GTW ’14) 14

Hitter of the Day: Mike Osinski, LF, SS, Geneva Red Wings
3/4, Sac Fly, 1 R, 1 RBI, .300 AVG, .356 OBP

Osinski proved a tough out Sunday night and even when retired he found a way to score. It was Osinski’s sac fly in the bottom of the sixth which tied the game at three. He later scored the game winner in walk-off fashion following an Andrew Utterback sac fly in the 10th. It’s safe to say that opportunity never had problems getting an answer at Osinski’s door on the evening.

Hitter of the Week: Sam Kim, UTI, Geneva Red Wings
Week: 7 G, 14/26, 7 2B, 2 HR, 1 3B, 6 BB, 1 HBP 9 R, 7 RBI, 1 SB, 1 SF .538 AVG, .618 OBP

Kim (University of Hawaii Hilo) continued his utter dominance of the league this week, helping propel the Red Wings to a 6-1 record in the last seven games. During that span, he extended his hitting streak to ten games, nearing the territory of some of the league’s best since 2011 (see left-hand column for further break down). He’s had multiple hits in five of those seven games, and produced one or more runs in all seven of those games. Kim has thrived as a run-producer, which is supported by his runs created metric of 32.151, the best in the league. He also leads qualified batters with a secondary average of .524. For perspective, Mike Trout leads the MLB with a SECA of .489.

Pitcher of the Day| Pitcher of the Week:
Joe Gnacinski, SP, Hornell Dodgers
Day: W (1-1), 7.0 IP (CG), 0 ER, 3 BB, 3 H, 10 K, 3.00 ERA, 1.11 WHIP .196 OAVG, .303 OOBP

Week: W (2-0), 14.2 IP, 2 R, 1 ER, 13 H, 5 BB, 12 K 0.61 ERA, 1.23 WHIP, .167 OAVG, .305 OOBP

Gnacinski (Mercyhurst) rightfully gets both awards, as he was dominant last night in a 10-0 win vs. Rochester. At one point he had retired 17 in a row. That was par for the course this week, as the righty got plenty of run support on July 1st, in another win over Rochester, this time 12-3. Now 3-1 on the season, Gnacinski, the NYCBL’s strikeout leader has won two in a row after a loss and three straight non-decisions, dropping his ERA from 4.31 to 3.13 in the past week. In that same period, the righty has been efficient, spreading 100 pitches over 30 batters in 6.2 innings Tuesday, and 92 to 29 batters in 8 innings yesterday, putting his weekly averages at 7.1 innings, 29.5 batters faced, and 96 pitches. That breaks down to an average of 13.1 pitches per inning and 3.3 pitches per batter faced. Of the 192 pitches thrown, 128 have been strikes, posting a solid strike percentage of 67. The current leader in the majors is Phil Hughes, whose percentage weighs in at 72.2 %.
